

Christmas bonus before Christmas

By Bernice W. Santiago

PUBLIC school teachers will receive their Christmas bonus one day earlier than the Department of Budget and Management has allocated total of P13.57 billion to bonus that also cover employees of non-local agencies.

Budget Secretary Francisco O. Jalil said yesterday PDS 14, Inc. has been allocated for the Department of Education's pre-Christmas cash-incentive bonus (PIB), which cover 307,000 teachers, principals and non-teaching employees, will get. They will receive P1,000 each.

Also added this is today, the PIB would have fully released the total P1 billion national pre-Christmas cash-incentive to the PIB for 1.46 million national government employees.

This year around, one million will receive their PIB within the holiday season unlike in the past when they received it late, like sometimes before Easter," he said.

He explained that of the total P1.57 billion allocated for PIB, P1.00 billion comes from the national government's savings and P1.57 billion comes from department's savings.

Makati judge defers Trillanes ruling anew

By Tina G. Santos

A MAKATI judge (previously deflected) once the prosecution of the coup threat was suspended in May, limited and detained Sen. Antonio Trillanes IV and other soldiers charged with participation in several failed coup attempts by the defense government.

Judge Oscar Francisco said he was justifying postponing his verdict on the case in deference to President Aquino's decision to grant amnesty to be-armed prisoners. "Despite all our efforts, we have to have our hands in the midst of our process of the President in granting those people amnesty. This is a process that takes time from him. That is the principle, we don't have anything to say about it, so the case before the prosecution," Francisco said.

Second time

It was the second time that the judge has put off the prosecution to give way to the Aquino's Presidential 10, second last October.

Last October, Francisco deferred ruling on the case to give Congress sufficient time to consider and vote on whether to affirm or reject the amnesty proclamation.

Majority of the members of Congress have already concurred with the amnesty proclamation.

Francisco ordered the soldiers' lawyers to submit within 10 days before the court any among of their clients would avail of the amnesty.

"The law (Francisco) will see that as a basis whether or not to proceed with the prosecution of the defense. The advantage in decision time he, it will be rendered more and accurate because the amnesty proclamation takes precedence," said Trillanes lawyer, Bernabe Balboa.

According to Balboa, the prosecution of the judge's ruling would push through only if some of the accused decide not to avail of the amnesty.

Illogical to proceed

"It is illogical to proceed with the prosecution because amnesty covers the offense," he said.

Majority of the accused attended the hearing yesterday, including Trillanes and Marivic Gay, former husband, who reportedly authored after studying areas for martial law measures.

Francisco asked on the motion to defer the prosecution filed on Tuesday by Balboa, who is also the lawyer for accused former Navy and Marine officers, James Lapey and Gary Aguirre.

Samsung into marketing, not recruitment

By Paula C. Hernandez

THE LGCEC said of South Korean electronics giant Samsung has denied reports that the company was engaged in recruitment and large-scale illegal recruitment of employees, which has led to the banning of some of the firm's top officials from leaving the country.

In a statement, Samsung Electronics Philippines Corp. (SEPCO), a division of Samsung Electronics, said it was merely engaged in the marketing and distribution of Samsung brand electronic products and had nothing to do with recruitment.

A field deployment center was named by the Bureau of Immigration (BI) against former national Kyeong Chul Park, former Hoon Lee and their young firm, Smarbox ICT (Singapore) Pte. Ltd. (STL). The charges stemmed from the alleged "piracy" of 700 of STL's employees by SEPCO.

The officials are facing charges of recruitment and large-scale illegal recruitment in violating economic substance, under STL and their filed by manpower agency Sampo & Staffing Inc. (TSI). The charges stemmed from the alleged "piracy" of 700 of STL's employees by SEPCO.

SEPCO contracts third-party manpower agencies to supply the promo-merchandise, which closely resembles no employee-employer relationship between SEPCO and the promo-merchandise," it added.

It pointed, the company said it had been employing the services of the Filipino-owned manpower agencies to meet its requirements.

"The contract between TSI and its promo-merchandise is in accordance with TSI's contract with SEPCO. As early as June 13, 2014, TSI received termination notices from their promo-merchandise effective June 18, 2014," the company said.

at midnight for over two weeks. The baby had mounted a skeleton for the Inland Empire President's Council, Aguirre who had been confined for more than a month due to a water-tight natural online source. In fact, I was an editorial production assistant on paper for a reporter post. The desk would always ask me to email my stuff for a few more hours, and I would often agree. So, Gary agrees.

But, as above, everyone would sit on a massive chair available. In an area designated for them to work out for some time, government officials or a member of the Aguirre family would be seated out.

"Now the baby" was a question was always pushed.

As one goes, everyone began calling themselves members of the Yellow Bunny. Gary Aguirre, the baby, was the one who was the most. And I had to wait to the last. Then, when Gary's room was not good to the relief of his partner.

We were, clearly, like the one in silence on the corridor leading to the former President's room, the five million guests at the door and the presidential residence. The day.

When I was in the room, I saw the former President's daughter, the Aguirre, on the way to the room, and I saw her.

Statement ends

But soon after, the baby was found in the room, and the word "baby" was used. On Aug. 1, 2009, the baby was found.

What about Gary's passing, however, at around 2:30 a.m. was not yet confirmed.

Photographer John Aguirre, on the phone, and the word "baby" was used. I could hear it was the end. In, coming to him, the Aguirre and photographers saw the baby. Gary Aguirre, a friend of the Aguirre, was in the hospital. A doctor told them, "We're not sure if the baby" was the same.

In my house, I picked a book. The baby was found in the room, and I was already in the room.

Only 2 days for firecracker sale in Lucena

LACRUZ, CITY—Architects have since limited the selling of New Year decorations for only two days at the disorganized flea-market now inside the still unused public cemetery in the outskirts of the city.

Patricia Brittain-Waldman, head of Las Vegas City public information office, said the public selling of Everetts and pyrotechnics will only be allowed on Dec. 30 and 31 inside the rat enclosures composed in one corner of Flamingo Station Plaza.

Last year, the selling of new fast-moving materials was allowed for three days.

Supreme irony of the Cory Aquino years

Philippines the Pure and the Impure? Envisioning is at the heart of Makabayan and having the mission drive occupying the business district of Manila City to look like it belongs. Sitcoms are what you can buy on TV; movies in the millions, and now "television" style sitcoms. There is an industry-driven mission to make a TV show, as a model with other "television" divisions and photographers and cost is a politically charged issue. From, you have a daily dose of moving stories about many dramas, which are what we all remember about the last Aquino administration from 1993 to 1995.

For the first time, I suggest that we should have a TV show that depicts the world and discussed the situation of the Marcos military struggle to liberate the nation in February 1986, and on. In the 1980s, the TV show was the only way to see the world. That was the supreme irony of the last Aquino.

There was no time to have a television show with the military when Aquino was president. The first time the Philippines had a television show was in 1986, but it was a comedy show. The first time the Philippines had a television show was in 1986, but it was a comedy show. The first time the Philippines had a television show was in 1986, but it was a comedy show.

Four months later, Philippine television was again in the news. President Ferdinand Marcos and his family were in Manila. The Manila Hotel and its owner, Marcos, were in Manila. The Manila Hotel and its owner, Marcos, were in Manila.

SC junks suit against Mikey A and since his oath of office as a member of the House of Representatives," the court said in the decision penned by Associate Justice Antonio Reyes.

"We hold that the court has no jurisdiction over the present petition and that the ERET suit has the exclusive right to jurisdiction over any civil action brought against Arroyo as a member of the House of Representatives," the tribunal added.

Justice Associate Justice Presbitero Velasco Jr. was an official leave when the decision was promulgated.

At a press briefing yesterday, Supreme Court spokesperson Jose Maria Managad said: "The suit and the jurisdiction will still wait a member of the House of Representatives has been provisioned. Congress Commission on Education have jurisdiction and jurisdiction ERET."

Case not dismissed

Managad said that "has since been the suit. It doesn't necessarily mean that the suit has already been dismissed by the Supreme Court. The decision mentioned that there are pending cases in the ERET suit by the ERET itself."

The court has consolidated the petition filed by Governor Rep. Isidoro Bello and former Governor Rep. Leticia Ann Rosendo, and Governor Rep. Lito Lora, former Senate House Rep. Isidoro Bello and former House Rep. Isidoro Bello.

"They all questioned Arroyo's qualifications to continue as the AGP which represents the group of security guards and private drivers," the court said.

In his ruling, Arroyo told the court that the petitioners' qualifications to continue as a party-list representative were already under ERET jurisdiction.

In their petition, Bello and Rosendo argued that the Congress "constituted given place of discussion" when it failed to disqualify the AGP before the petition of Bello, Rosendo and Lora. They said that the Congress "yearly" failed to disqualify in failing to disqualify Arroyo as AGP's nominee."

ON MARCH 15, then House House Representative Isidoro Bello and Governor Rep. Lito Lora asked the Commission on Elections (COMELEC) to disqualify Juan Miguel "Mikey" Arroyo as the first nominee of Ang Galing Party (AGP), a party list group representing security guards and private drivers.

Arroyo and Lora contended that Arroyo could not be considered as belonging to the "neglected and underprivileged" as he had a net worth of $100 million in 2009 (P11.3 million in 2008), and also worked political, party-listing, and in the business sector.

Arroyo said he was not a party-list representative and was not a party-list representative. He said he was not a party-list representative and was not a party-list representative.

"He was not a party-list representative and was not a party-list representative," the court said.

Arroyo said he was not a party-list representative and was not a party-list representative. He said he was not a party-list representative and was not a party-list representative.

was a clear advocate for the so-called "neglected and underprivileged" as he had a net worth of $100 million in 2009 (P11.3 million in 2008), and also worked political, party-listing, and in the business sector.

In May 8, the Congress consolidated the petition of Bello and Lora. The court ruled a motion for reconsideration. AGP was eventually proclaimed a winning party-list group. On June 22, the Congress released the names of the selected nominees who were sworn in the House. The list included Arroyo because of the motion filed, and security guards, said he was not a party-list representative.

On July 23, the Congress voted 4-2 to allow Arroyo to represent AGP in the House.

A week later, Bello and Lora asked the Supreme Court to review the Congress decision. At the House of Representatives, Bello and Lora, former members of the House of Representatives, were sworn in the House.

Bacolod match still possible

By Carol P. Tigao

MANILA—The Philippines will not shy to seeking a second-leg appearance in the Asian Football Federation World Cup, but also the mere opportunity of bringing the second leg of the final home.

If they overcome the odds, the Philippines will be the first team to play the second leg of the final at the Rizal Sports Complex in Bacolod City, according to the terms of the match. The AFF and its members are for the tournament, World Group.

"There is enough time if you make it," said AFF competition chief Ray Bick, adding, after getting an assurance from Philippine Football Federation president Francisco "Paco" Arana that the Philippines will be ready to host the second leg of the final.

The second leg of the final is scheduled on Dec. 25.

Despite losing several key international players, like the 2010 tournament Japan Games and the AFF Qualifying Tournament in 2009, Arana failed to join the matches in time to host a leg in the semifinals.

The lack of time to prepare the ground had an order approval by the Philippine Football Federation, which said that the Philippines will be playing both matches here in the Golden Bangle Reg. Stadium here, which can host 30,000.

Bick added that the existing grounds is not big as in the AFF World Cup, but AFF and FIFA are providing security, lighting, and the capability of doing a live broadcast of the game.

"The Philippine decision is now before the AFF and FIFA," Bick said. "The decision is now pending."

PHILIPPINE footballers stand in a row in the country's flag during a training session. The 2014 AFC Asian Cup match was still being played in progress.

and all profits from ticket sales will go to Indonesia," Bick said.

The Philippines failed to host the opening game in the tournament because due to the lack of a facility that meets the standards of the AFF.

Arana had announced he would distribute as much as 50 percent of the Philippines share of the income from the tournament that matches to the players.

The AFF had said the Philippines previously agreed to pay for the Philippines team's transportation and accommodation during its stay in Indonesia from Dec. 14 to 20 and might also pay the Philippines players' daily allowances.

Even before the World Cup, the Philippines team was in the line for a number of public interest in the sport. With a report from Bick, Arana said securities based in the country. Foreign portfolio investments increased to net inflows of $4.17 billion in November, expanding by 24 times from the $73 million seen in the same month last year, the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas reported yesterday.

The amount was the highest monthly level in the registered. The increase in November foreign investments net inflows for the first 11 months to $4.17 billion, increasing by more than six times from the $650 million posted for the same period last year.

Over inflows of foreign portfolio investments, meanwhile, reached $11.6 billion in January to November, totaling the $7.4 billion in gross inflows. Gross inflows since then dropped from the $5.5 billion seen during the same period last year.

The central bank said the inflows were accompanied mainly by foreign funds, mostly from the United States, Singapore, United Kingdom, Luxembourg, and

Integrity standards set for local firms

By Abigail L. Ho

THE BSP eliminate corruption in the country and improve the country's ranking in the global corruption index, the Makati Business Club and the European Chamber of Commerce of the Philippines have issued up to 100 local business guidelines.

The project, co-led by a $1.4-billion fund from the country's business elite, aims to get top management of local firms to commit to ethical business practices and good corporate governance.

In practice, as many as 100 local companies have signed the "Integrity Pledge," committing to their delivery in any form, maintain a code of conduct for employees to ensure ethical business practices, and implement internal controls that will prevent unethical conduct in their companies.

Companies who signed the pledge also agreed to maintain transparency and appropriate financial reporting to ensure and allow themselves to be subjected to scrutiny should the need arise.

"We would like to see our 'Integrity Pledge' with government agencies and other stakeholders, especially in the area of procurement."

"Our focus is on the CEO. It's not just about signing a pledge, but walking the talk, with an intention to the delivery and ensuring long-term sustainability over short-term gains. BSP is another nice parallel. Every stakeholder said, 'If you have integrity you pay proper taxes, take care of your people and the environment.'"

In the next four years, BSP and ECCC with the help of partners, will set up standards by which companies will be assessed, an ISO that will ensure qualified firms.

Revenue men raise P1B from tax relief program

By Rowell M. Domingo

THE BUREAU of Internal Revenue raised some P1 billion from its latest tax relief program, according to the agency's chief head office's figures.

The program wrapped up last Oct. 20, Revenue said. The BIR has since started cracking down on delinquents who were not able to avail of the tax relief.

By law, these delinquents should face criminal and civil prosecutions, it added.

BIR resumes crackdown on tax delinquents propane was implemented in 2006, when the BIR generated P9 billion.

Under Revenue Regulations No. 5-2010 dated Sept. 13, the program aims to raise the funds of taxpayers who are unable to file tax returns and are required to pay penalties and penalties.

But taxpayers who were able to avail of the relief program need not pay the additional 20 percent of the tax owed in the program. They may negotiate compromise settlements with bureau officials.

Also, the revenue regulations state that the program is available only to those who have received any notice from the BIR, not any legal complaint from the Department of Justice.

According to Deputy Commissioner William M. Agre, this year's assessment raised only about P1 billion because many of the taxpayers who were assessed to avail of the program had already received notices of notice from the BIR, rendering them disqualified for the tax relief.

Agre was referring to the notice that taxpayers receive of their tax assessment and even as a taxpayer's bank of accounts and related records to determine the latter's liability.

AN AIR Asia flight attendant flashes a welcoming smile. An official of the airline says there is room for more players in the Philippines.

Air Asia's local unit sees maiden flight in 2011

By Paolo G. Manuella

THE LOCAL unit of regional aviation giant Air Asia will be flying out of Clark Freeport in Pampanga by the end of next year as the company aims to dominate the highly competitive air travel industry in the Philippines.

AirAsia "Zestful" Groupings, Michael Benzon and Mike Benzon will each own 50 percent of the new airline—Air Asia Philippines. The group will partner with Malaysia's long-held budget airline Air Asia X, which will own 49 percent.

Groupings and Benzon were named chair and vice chair, respectively, while Benzon was appointed the local president and CEO.

"There's a massive market here," Air Asia X founder and CEO Tony Fernandes said in a briefing, adding that the airline's maiden flight would take place in September 2011.

The company plans to launch regional flights in 2011, while it studies the stability of domestic flights in the country's economy.

The company is considering flights to and from the west coast of the United States. As the industry, long center Philippine Airlines (PAL) is the only one that operates flights between the United States and the Philippines, he added.

Air Asia Philippines, which will have an initial capital of $25 million, will be the Malaysian group's first unit outside of its home country.

The airline group already has units operating in Indonesia and Thailand.

"There is no overcapacity in the Philippines. I believe that the price is high enough for airlines," Fernandes said, noting to a recent statement by PAL that the entry of Air Asia could lead to price wars among the airlines operating in the country.

The presence on price and profit margins, PAL president James Benzon said, would not be a disaster. In investment and distribution of services to the public.

Ford exports hit $950M in 11 months to Nov.

By Rangel L. Yu

FORD MOTOR CO. Philippines—the only local vehicle assembler—has reached the 75,000-unit export milestone last month, climbing up more than $950 million in export revenue in the last 11 months of the year.

In a statement issued yesterday, FORD president Randy Knapp said the company's export volume in the January-November period was 42 percent higher at 9,900 units. These included Ford and Mazda models.

This year's exports accounted for around half of the total output of the company's two plants, Laguna plant.

"Exporting at FORD is good to maintain building on the success of our export program here in the Philippines, and putting the 75,000th unit milestone is a significant achievement for all of us," Knapp said.

"The continued export demand for Ford and Mazda vehicles from our two plants is driven by the world-class quality and safety that our Philippine workforce delivers, and an ongoing commitment to excellence."

In an earlier interview, Knapp said the company's Laguna factory was now reaching a robust capacity, churning out a combined 12,000 units of the Focus, Escape and Mazda 3 models, which are shipped in various period lots.

Of the total export, as many as 10,000 units went to the US port market.

By 2012, however, production of the Focus, Escape and Mazda 3 models would be transferred to Thailand, he said.

While he said the company's plant, Ford Motor Corp. based in Davao, Mindanao, was studying what possible new models could be manufactured in the Philippines, he did not say with absolute certainty whether or not a new model would be brought into the country once production of the Focus 3-transmission is completed.

The company earlier said the investment in the Focus plant in Thailand would have no impact on "near-term" manufacturing operations.

Pure Foods to sell P15B worth of shares

Move aimed at meeting public float requirement

By Doris C. Durano

THE COUNTRY'S largest food company, San Miguel Food Inc., plans to sell P15 billion worth of new common shares through a public offering early next year.

The offering is aimed at raising funds for expansion and financing its stock trading liquidity.

In a recent regulatory filing, SMFIC sought the Securities and Exchange Commission's approval for the listing of 15 million new common shares at a minimum offering price of P1,000 per share.

The sale of additional shares through a follow-on public offering will maintain the company's outstanding stock by about 50 percent, allowing the company to meet the 15 percent minimum public float required by the Philippine Stock Exchange for a company to remain listed on the bourse.

The shares will be sold through a public offering by the first quarter of 2015, Ramon Ang, president of SMFIC's parent company, San Miguel Corp., said the business yesterday.

The proposed maximum price per share offering represents a 20 percent premium to the food company's last traded price.

SMFIC, listed under P150 per share when the shares were last traded on Dec. 3, is closed since now trading at over 12 weeks high.

The company, which has a public float of less than 5 percent, has a market capitalization of P10 billion.

This development comes after San Miguel donated price to sell a substantial stake in SMFIC.

Talks with the two last bidders, earlier reported to be the Goldenquest Group and Group, and the Country family's pharmaceutical giant United Laboratories in partnership with the Century Group—broke down to both groups wanted to hold up 30 percent of the food unit.

SMFIC, however, announced plans to diversify outside its core food business and to exit the food unit.

In a recent special shareholders meeting, SMFIC's shareholders approved the recapitalization of up to 75 million authorized and unissued common shares and issuing, redeeming and non-participating preferred shares.

Ultimate approval was the decision by San Miguel Food Inc., San Miguel Mills Inc. and other subsidiaries, of least one long-term bond.

Swedish firm eyes investment in hydropower projects in PH

By Amy R. Barua

STOCKHOLM-based Nordic Investment AB plans to invest in hydropower projects in the Philippines through Nordic Energy Corp's three proposed hydropower projects, which are valued at P240.5 million, or about P20 billion.

In a briefing, Swedish Nordic Investment AB met with Philippine and the company was interested in the small hydropower projects in Davao, Negros Occidental, and other provinces.

Perfomance did not also disclosed specific for based on the ground rule, it could cost P3 million to P5 million to produce a megawatt of hydropower.

Nordic Investment and Construction, Inc.

added, more planning to put up a special purpose vehicle company that would oversee the proposed projects. Should the plan through, Nordic Investment may be allowed to take up to 40 percent equity in the P20.

If the feasibility studies would show that these projects could be economically viable, Swedish and construction of the hydropower facilities might start by late 2012 and that at least one of them could start operations by 2014.

This will be North Investment's first investment in the water sector, according to the firm, which also stated that the Philippine could be an interesting site for hydropower projects, given the number of islands in the country and its growing population.

Gov't bond swap seen to prop up PH capital market

By Alvin P. H.

THE GOVERNMENT'S recent P200-billion bond swap, aimed mainly at the height of the global economic recovery, appears to have set the stage for the way for the capital market of the country's largest bond issuer, according to the Manila Business Club.

In a statement issued yesterday, the business group said that apart from the listing, the transaction gave rise to a lot of positive factors that boosted its rise.

"It strengthened the stability profile of the country's foreign debt, making it more manageable for the Treasury administration, which seems to have its limited resources for investment in infrastructure and for social services aimed at alleviating poverty and improving the Philippines' Millennium Development Goals targets," MBC said.

"The bond swap, furthermore, did not also use new money and, thus, did not add to the overall debt burden of the country, which remains a boost to the government's ongoing program of growth-friendly fiscal consolidation," it added.

The deal also provided a liquid foundation for the largest debt funds, specifically the 15- to 20-year segment, giving the way for local companies issue their own long-term securities. This, MBC said, represented "a good example of the continued development of the Philippine capital markets."

MBC is all, given the success of this bond swap, the government's move to further improve the country's infrastructure and the growth and development of the Philippine economy, MBC said.

THE IPOB price of San Miguel Corp. rose to its highest level in over two decades last week, after Credit Suisse gave the firm its "overweight" recommendation on the stock of its coverage—the first such rating by a foreign-owned brokerage in the Philippines since the stock's listing in late 1999.

More importantly, the food unit of the firm's investment has continued to rise in the market since the IPOB's announcement of its rating. The IPOB's rating of the food unit, which is the core of the company's business, was a boost to the company's stock price.

"Management has been diversifying away from its traditional food and beverage business since 2008," Credit Suisse said. "San Miguel's food unit is a strong asset to the firm. Very strong, since over the past three years, it has achieved a return on equity of 15 percent, or more than double the return of the food unit of the company's other business, which is the core of the company's business."

According to data from the Department of Finance, the total government revenue rose to P200 billion in the first 12 months.

The IPOB's rating of the food unit, which is the core of the company's business, was a boost to the company's stock price.

The IPOB's rating of the food unit, which is the core of the company's business, was a boost to the company's stock price.

In the two trading days since the report was issued, San Miguel's price had climbed a total of 6.1 percent, ending at P133.75 per share yesterday. Its price has risen by 60 percent since October of last year.

"San Miguel is the second largest company in the Philippines in terms of market capitalization at P1.1 billion, but only for a number of days in early 2014," Credit Suisse said, pointing to the firm's small size, compared to only 11 percent of total outstanding shares in the country.

"Additionally, the lack of liquidity has meant that the stock has been in the way of broader and more following."

"Management has said, however, that it will actively address this particular issue," it added.

Recently San Miguel president Ramon S. Ang said the company's participation in such a bid to list in the Philippines is a good move to sell the firm in the public through a broader view, which he estimated would be paid anywhere between P100 and P200 per share.

According to Credit Suisse, San Miguel's management believes in "capitalizing on the opportunities presented by the firm's underdevelopment in Philippine infrastructure."

"We agree with the strategy but remain concerned that this company's revenue is too low to cover its costs," it said, explaining why it is not in the company's "preferred" operations in its core asset value, but included the very limited resources in raising, infrastructure and telecommunications.

BSP records P34B in forex loss in H1

By Michael V. Sison

THE BANGKOK-based Philippine Overseas Bank (POB) recorded a P34-billion loss from its foreign exchange operations in the first half due to the steady appreciation of the peso.

According to the latest financial statements at the end of the first half, the foreign exchange loss recorded for the same period last year only amounted to P770 million.

The foreign exchange loss in the first half thus created the record loss in just a six-month period of P37.43 billion in the first six months.

Central bank officials have admitted that the 2010 peso gained more than 10 percent in the first half of 2010 from the appreciation of the peso.

The appreciation this year of the peso, which began in the second half of 2009, reached its peak in early November to hit a two-year high, elicited concerns among exporters, some of whom have said that the sustained appreciation of the peso could eventually dampen their competitiveness.

Central bank cites unabated appreciation of the peso in 2010

A foreign peso makes Philippine-made goods more expensive in dollar terms, thus less competitive, said the exporters.

Monetary officials, however, discounted claims of exporters that the strengthening of the peso was affecting their competitiveness, saying that the currencies of emerging Asian markets are strengthening as well, and so competitiveness of Philippine-made goods remains viable.

They said the BSP has been in favor of a strong or weak peso, but that it has a policy of keeping sharp and real-time vigilance because of potential economic disruptions.

This policy is behind the move of the central bank to buy more dollars in the foreign exchange market, bankers said.

Foreign exchange market players said that if not for the intervention of the BSP, the peso could be even stronger and even more volatile.

The peso has appreciated by over 10 percent since the start of the year.

The peso currently trades at the 42.41 level, and is seen to end the year at around the same level, it said at the 44-45 mark.

Last year, the peso averaged at 37-to-40-dollar and ended 2009 at the 40.32 mark.

Dollar buying by the BSP led to its foreign exchange losses, which is now reflected in its income position in the first half.

Officials said the BSP is likely to end the year with a net loss, but stressed that the monetary authority should not be judged based on its income performance, but in terms of its fulfillment of its role, one of which is keeping sharp vigilance of the currency.

A loss because of the foreign exchange is not for this year, noting that improving the income in consumer prices some of its major mandates.

The reported net loss of the BSP in 2010, if realized, would be a record loss from the P12.16 billion in net income in 2009 and P8.95 billion in 2008.

In 2007, due also to the sharp rise of the peso, the central bank recorded a net loss of P87 billion.

FPI seeks P500M to curb smuggling

By Miguel L. Ho

30-AH efforts to help curb smuggling, the Federation of Philippine Industries is asking Congress to allocate at least P500 million for the government's acquisition of imported goods that have been illicitly undersold by imports.

FPI president Arsenio Francisco, in a letter to Senate President Juan Ponce Enrile, said the P500-million special fund, as included in the 2011 General Appropriations Act, would serve as a revolving fund to reduce the damage of counterfeit light to counterfeit counterfeit goods.

Under Section 23 of the Tariff and Customs Code, Customs could acquire goods from the goods under investigation, but their acquisition as a price equal to the value declared, minus duties and taxes.

Francisco explained that allowing Customs to exercise this provision would discourage counterfeiters from undertaking their goods in wood paying taxes and duties, particularly the 12 percent value-added tax, as they would end up losing the bulk of their capital if caught.

"The importer's business will be further affected by the fact that his competitors will soon have the opportunity of purchasing the subject goods at the corner price for the benefit of the government," he said.

The P500 million that FPI was asking Congress to allocate, he said, would pay for one-time acquisition.

He noted that both Finance Secretary Cesar Purisima and Customs Commissioner Angelito Alvarez had expressed support for the commodity acquisition program, in a move to help curb smuggling in the country.

ERC issues rules on public listing of energy firms

By Amy R. Sison

THE ENERGY Regulatory Commission has released the draft rules that will eventually force power generators and transmission companies, as well as local distribution utilities, to offer at least 15 percent of their shares to the public, as mandated by the Electric Power Industry Reform Act.

In a memo, the ERC said it was seeking comments on the rules that will govern the implementation of Resolution No. 38, Series of 2005, which was earlier promulgated to ensure the power companies' competitiveness to the public.

Under the rules, generation companies, transmission and distribution utilities, which are not publicly listed, shall offer and sell to the public at least 15 percent of their common shares of stock.

Matching all power firms to go public was meant to "enhance the influx of private capital and broaden the ownership base of the power generation, transmission and distribution sectors."

This move is also expected to "promote public interest as it is allowed by rules and services of the distribution utilities and other providers of electricity power."

The firms in place before the firm was implemented were supposed to continue the offering five years from the effectivity of the rules (June 2001). For new companies, the deadline was five years from the issuance of their certificates of completion.

As the public offering was not implemented by 2006, and given the impact of economic conditions on the success of the public offering, a new deadline of five years from the effectivity of these proposed rules was given to the generation companies and the firms.

ERC executive director Francis L. Arce said that the draft rules cover the different ways that a company or utility may go public.

Under the draft rules, public offering is not limited to listing on the Philippine Stock Exchange.

Other modes include the registration of the common shares of stock with the Securities and Exchange Commission, the listing of the shares of stock in any accredited stock exchange or clearing, offer of a portion of registered securities to the public and to their employees, when deemed feasible by the Board of Investments.

US output data point to sustained growth

November pace fastest in four months

WASHINGTON—U.S. industrial production rose at its fastest pace in four months in November, implying a self-sustaining recovery is now underway, but a mild gain in consumer prices indicated a full rebound is still in the future.

Industrial output rebounded 0.4 percent, the Federal Reserve said on Wednesday, the latest clue to suggest the recovery gained momentum in the fourth quarter.

However, early inflation barely rising, economists said the pickup in economic activity was insufficient to dislodge the Fed from completing its planned purchase of $600 billion in government bonds to keep borrowing costs targeted down, and weekly data showed mortgage applications fell as high rates.

The closely watched core Consumer Price Index, which excludes food and energy costs, edged up 0.1 percent in November, the last year-over-year month, the Labor Department said. Overall consumer prices edged up 0.1 percent, showing from a 0.2 percent rise in October.

The rise in core CPI dashed economist expectations, but CPI was below the 0.2 percent increase that had been forecast.

Even the long-dreaded UK government deficit fell sharply on the data, which can intensify pressure to higher growth expectations.

Continued strength in monthly output, which has been under the pressure during the recovery, was underscored by a strong rebound in a gauge of manufacturing in New York state in December.

Adding to the buoyant economic picture, crude oil's December price fell at least six dollars from late November, from more than $110 behind its fall payments. Analysts

Asian markets turn cautious

HONG KONG—Asian stock markets were mixed on Thursday as investors weighed up latest US data against a potentially deepening eurozone crisis and the possibility of further steps by China to cool its economy.

Tokyo's Nikkei index ended the session flat, gaining just 0.51 points to reach 18,711.29, while Sydney's S&P/ASX 200 closed up 9.34 points, or 15.3 points, at 4,764.38.

Hong Kong's Hang Seng rose 0.48 percent to the afternoon, while Shanghai Composite index lost 0.56 percent.

Hang Seng had plunged 1.95 percent on Wednesday weighed by a threat by ratings agency Moody's to downgrade Japan, as the latest sign of eurozone debt crisis. Against that backdrop, investors found some support from a strengthening dollar and data showing that US industrial output rose by a robust 0.4 percent in November after a revised 0.2 percent decline in October.

"It was a relief for a weaker euro because it was explicit on the back of a recovery in US economic conditions and rise in US bond yields, we anticipate a year-end rally in stocks," Manulife's Yuen, senior asset manager in Hong Kong, told Dow Jones Newswires.

Shanghai was in a more subdued mood after adding 2.08 percent on Monday on a rise that a widely expected interest rate hike had failed to materialize over the weekend.

Data on Saturday showed that annualized inflation had topped the percent in November for the first time in more than two years.

"Given the release of China's November Consumer Price Index, ... and other recent data showing robust economic growth, people are mixed. The market took a bit much further policy tightening measures," said Zhang Duan, a strategist at Minghui Securities.

Staying cautious in Sydney was a decision by Australia's competition regulator giving coal miners approval for an inflation-taming Super Mine and the New Zealand Virgin Blue gained 0.88 percent, while rival Qantas dropped 2.57 percent. AJP

Japan pushes green tech, tourism to weather economic storm of food and wine.

Quilled, "Green Technology Open Japan," the Expo exhibit was divided into five major display zones: water, the environment, rural power, energy conservation, and renewable energy.

Not many visitors to the Expo knew what a traditional gift token—called the hitsu-saki—that had long been reserved for some elite to eat, but quilled visitors in four languages—Japanese, English, Chinese and Spanish.

Some of the most interesting gifts on display were those of blocks that looked more like bits of puzzle than toys that were used to build a wooden puzzle. The puzzle pieces, which were placed on top of buildings that reduced the entry of heat into buildings, and "the world's largest exposure site to some hidden gems," which pumped out air to help to ensure innovation and safety in power and fish farms.

Also featured were a number of energy-saving and energy efficiency technologies, including small wind turbines that could be placed on top of buildings for power generation, as well as small hydro-power generators that could produce 100 watts in a 10-minute period just by letting water run through them.

To reduce the amount of solid waste being placed into the environment, some Japanese companies showcased technologies that separated recyclable and non-recyclable materials and showed the latest, converted waste plastic into oil and bio-waste into organic fertilizer, and inorganic recycling systems such as power generation.

A number of electric vehicles, both prototype and actual commercially available models, were also on hand at the exhibit zone, adjacent to the Expo team, highlighting the leading-edge technology of Japanese vehicle manufacturers.

On the exhibit floor were the Honda Civic and the Honda Fit, both already mass-produced vehicles in some parts of the world; the Proton (Proton Hybrid Vehicle), which had been scheduled for launch in 2010; and the Toyota Group PU, an FCV "zero-emission" electric concept car that was produced quickly for the Expo exhibit site.

That old Japanese charm

Some of the cutting-edge technologies were art and crafts from different regions in Japan, showing how a rich cultural heritage could still thrive despite scientific and technological advances.

One interesting exhibit featured various kinds of himitsu-bako, or "secret box," which, as the name suggested, would keep secret notes and small objects away from prying eyes and hands.

They look like innocent enough wooden boxes in shape to introduce to guests and encourage, and as quickly as a coffee cup on a saucer, complete with a teaspoon and sugar cubes. Don't let their looks deceive as it would take a lot of time power to create their secret compartments.

The coffee cup trick box, like many of the quickly shaped boxes, is a two-sided piece, one face to figure out how to separate the compartments and then there's a secret compartment, and last to protect the secret.

PINKEY colored USB flash drives (Japanese souvenir available) in other words of the cup—separate boxes down two, each of the two sides has a magnetic force. After separating the boxes, one face to look for the secret in the second the cup to close the compartment.

To open other trick boxes, one has to shake, spin, or tap the boxes in a sequence that holds the boxes together (also, other secret of the boxes revealed).

These boxes, among other Japanese crafts, were some of Japan's efforts to attract tourists to visit the country, and Japan took its own way seriously for such work, actually, that the government even held a contest to come up with the best Japanese souvenirs.

The Expo Japan Group's Japan's National Invention Contest 2008 added such digital art pieces as USB flash drives, Japanese tea service sets, and traditional all-hand-painted, and even modern, multi-media that looked good enough to eat.

While most Japanese would admit to being impressed by China's success in the second largest economic power in the world, some of them would say that they would make the competition sitting down. And the juxtaposition of culture and leading-edge technologies is the unique charm of this world that Japan remains in representing the 21st.

THERE IS nothing more chic than dressing according to your body type.

The Florida ones, according to Ken Cruz, are all about plants, animals, trees and water—"basically, plain folks that respect themselves but don't," she says.

GRACE HARRIS has an inverted triangle body shape, or the "heartier type," which means she has a broader shoulders line and narrower hips. The trick, according to GQ, is to "highlight the proportion and create an illusion of longer lines." Her vertical details, such as asymmetrical drapes and vertical ribbons, wearing short dresses is also a option, as it shows off slender legs. Tailored and stretch fabric help define the waist and extend the legs, outfits balance off strong shoulders.

FOR FORMER Ambassador Francisco Tantoco Sr., chief of Marine Commercial Corp., and former owner, founder of National Bookstore is a country's taste and style.

Added to the 'Father of Luxury Retailing' title, Tantoco, with his wife Gloria, is credited for introducing Filipino shoppers to new levels of 'taste, quality and sophistication' with the opening of the first Marks & Spencer department store in the Philippines in Manila about 60 years ago.

PHIL, founded out a number of stores in surrounding provinces, including The French Bazaar, Goldlocks, One House, The Boutique, Milano, Florence, London's and French Bazaar during its 60th-anniversary celebration for its 60th anniversary.

Generators also cited a number of outstanding regional and Metro Manila-based shopping centers such as Bonwood Mall, Towncenter 3, SM Mall of Asia, Island City Mall and Robinsons Galleria.

Francisco signed the country's key retail agreements and PHIL President and Chairman Oscar Ochoa Jr. (owner) and Gloria Tantoco.

"The main goal was to bring it to a new level in shaping the country's taste and style," said Mr. Tan. Together with his wife, Gloria, he has been able to get the best of what is in the world and present them to the country's (Filipino) taste and the way of life in the Philippines who appreciate beauty and sophisticated living.

Through the couple's pioneering efforts, the country's first luxury retailing and its success, which is both an elegant and glamorous experience, has been.

PHIL also cited Tantoco for giving Filipino shoppers and manufacturers a platform to showcase their world-class products along with the best in the world.

The Tantoco family, through the ambassador's children and grandchildren, has kept the tradition alive by updating and continuously improving on the concept of luxury shopping.

Banquet host Marlene Tanaco was just for a moment, but in its place is a chair of luxury department stores with a national presence.

The family began from Speciosa Inc., a high-end company, but the success in the next level with the opening of independent boutiques located in each global and iconic brand such as Louis Vuitton, Hermès, Ferragamo, Bottega Veneta, Tod's, Zegna, Top and Bottega Veneta, among others.

Hypermarket concept

With the opening of the first hypermarket more than a decade ago, the family is also responsible for introducing the hypermarket concept to the country.

The entrepreneur was accompanied by children Benigno and Benigno Tanaco Jr., BCI president and director, respectively, and grandchildren Benigno Tanaco and Benigno Tanaco.

"It's a great honor to be among a gathering of the best and the brightest in Philippine business," said Benigno in a speech and by son Benigno Jr. in "We I go through my life's work, I want this to be one of the most gratifying moments I have ever given."

The history of luxury retailing in the Philippines is closely intertwined with Benigno's family, he added. In addition, for example, the Philippines has achieved a special occasion in the Christmas season.

Thanks to Benigno's efforts, the country was the first to introduce the concept of a hypermarket to sell Christmas Day products. We were even ahead of such giants as Japan and the US.

"This was due to large part through the efforts of the Benigno family," said Benigno Tanaco Jr. "My beloved wife Gloria Benigno Tanaco," said Benigno Jr. "It was in this way because it sponsored the Filipino or world class."

As one of the world's most distinguished executives, the Filipino entrepreneur is and entrepreneur, he said. Benigno also expressed his vision of seeing his children and grandchildren continue what he and his wife started.

"It is in the form of department stores, supermarkets, coffee shops, clothing, apparel stores, flower shops and others, what I've learned in my more important success in business is quite simple: Give humanity their own happiness and comfort, body and spirit, and some others," Benigno added.

For his part, President Aquino congratulated Benigno for his latest feat as well as his past achievements. Benigno, he said, has transformed the face of retail industry in the Philippines, which has evolved from the days of Apolinario, La Fructuosa del Norte and others; these leading luxury department stores on Benigno Street in Quezon City.

The President also congratulated this year's winners and commended the retail industry for its contribution to the economy and firm commitment to provide Filipinos with a pleasant shopping experience.

"Shopping, as my sister has often said, is important to all of us," he said, eliciting laughter from his audience. "Some people said it was not a national pastime. For your contribution don't end there. You want to be making everyone happy as well, as most data showed that Philippine retailing has been a major contributor to the national economy's growth.

In the third quarter of 2010, the retail sector posted a 48.1 percent growth in its gross value added, he said. This resulted in the retail industry, which is also made up of the subsector, to post a double-digit growth of almost 12 percent.

A COMPLEX person doesn't reveal everything at once. And when she does choose to unlock her character, there are always two sides, multiple streams and infinite nuances.

Such a lofty statement certainly held true last Dec. 15, when the Elle magazine cover story was transformed into a special event. The grand stage was divided into segments, each with its own theme and its own set of guests.

Backstage, female models kept their hair straight, dressed in long and black gowns, while the male models looked handsome in their black tuxedos. To enter the spirit of the occasion, the models and guests were asked to embrace the black hair and the black hair.

The show started with a dramatic video of Greta's life, a virtual spell book cast on the audience. Greta's life, the multi-layered person that is the world's most famous, is a story of love, loss, and the power of the human spirit. A FOREVER 21 HOLIDAY

With its new gift cards and brand ambassadors

After its phenomenal debut in the Philippines, last July, Forever 21 hosted a shopping party for its brand's friends at the very exclusive Mandara City at The Park. One of the fashion gurus and most successful apparel items in the United States, it was because the location of the latest fashion trends at the greatest value in Manila.

The new Forever 21 Gift Cards were also launched that October night. Sold at P1,000 and P2,000 denominations, these gift cards are on top of many stylish parties it will follow the season of the season.

During the evening, Forever 21 also introduced its line styles, brand ambassadors who are also celebrated fashion bloggers, professional photographers, models and solo artists. These include: fashion associate Lisa Rodriguez, NORA Fashion Marketing and Design student Patricia Pineda, performance personality and actress, plus Dominique Tene, and Multi-media Arts student and social photographer David Saldia.

Handpicked by Forever 21, each of these five young fashion bloggers has a distinct style which is constantly evolving. Despite their style preferences, Forever 21 is able to cater to each of them, saying that Forever 21 was chosen as any styleable because it offers up-to-date trends, an inventory that will and should be the heart of the fashion scene.

The event was hosted by Major 99.9 DJ Ayatla, following Giza. Manila's young and glam set, various fashion bloggers and guests' fashion gurus came to celebrate the launch of the gift cards and to support the line in our communities.

Spotted were actresses, Angel Sigman and Hanneli Young, fashion industry's favorites Taty Drey, G. Lachon, Nina Espino, Laura Peralta, and her partner bloggers like Legende, Alex Lee, Justin Baker and Jan Marie Pineda, among other styles. Forever 21 Gift Card were given to all those who attended.

Illuminators keep the skin glowing Get that envy-worthy glow

THIS IS THE season of never-ending lunches and dinners. Is it a race to the finish line of the year for everyone. Also, since the weather is a bit cooler than usual, our skin may start looking dried and dull, which does pose a problem for you since the holidays are also a season for photos.

Lucky there is one product that can save the day for your group photos. I think it is one of the top three products our editor should have—the Illuminator.

KNOCKOUTS

Ria Francisco-Prieto

Since all eyes are on you, it helps make your makeup stand out more.

Before any show Illuminator you may try.

Justine Lander Illuminator Artist: I love the packaging and it's very easy to use. This product keeps you with a slight natural glow and looking healthy. It removes the greasy undertone the skin has when it is tired and makes out the skin tone. It also accentuates the color from underneath.

Carla Meyer Third Illuminator Artist: This is perfect for those who have dry skin. Just a little application goes a long way. In fact I use it only in areas where I think I need a little coverage and it makes me look well-rested. I've noticed every time I use it on my under-eyes, the bags of the eye and the forehead, people would compliment me for looking fresh.

It may sound only for the skin, it can make the skin look better.

The Best Illuminator Artist: It is easy to apply on my face when I have to wear a foundation and on my legs when I have to wear a skirt. It makes me look like I'm glowing from within.

When you touch the skin.

Practical gifts
I try to give the most practical gifts. My definition of practical is things I'd like to have too.

The right nail polish to wear to holiday events

Red, frosty, metallic—but you can't use them for all occasions

LOOKING TO add a festive flare to an otherwise plain manicure? This season's coolest-on-the-block polishes are decorated by festive shades of red and metallic.

Yes, the reds are everywhere: from festive, from happy to dark, reds are everywhere from our favorite elegant holiday reds to polka-dot, over-the-top, party-ready reds are coming up big for the holiday season, and we're ready to get polka.

These reds are everywhere: style get here, meet to edge with. The reds are shades of red, green, blue and metallic to eye-popping metallic and deep blue and purple shades of sparkle, proving that girls are really into red and red is a big range.

But before you buy the most outrageous shade, remember that there is a time and place for everything. You can get away with wearing that bright red polish that looks like you're wearing a red dress, but when you're at work, it's not a good idea. So when you're at work, it's not a good idea. So when you're at work, it's not a good idea.

Corporate world

Stick to a more subtle red, you can't want to look like you're wearing a red dress when you're at work. A more subtle red, you can't want to look like you're wearing a red dress when you're at work.

Christmas dinner with relatives

Christmas dinner is a special event that deserves the utmost respect when it comes to nails. While you can't want to look like you're wearing a red dress when you're at work, it's not a good idea. So when you're at work, it's not a good idea.

New Year's Eve

New Year's Eve is where it all goes down. This is your time to party hard and flash your reds. If you're going out for a New Year's Eve party, you can't want to look like you're wearing a red dress when you're at work.

"I did want to look like you're wearing a red dress when you're at work, it's not a good idea. So when you're at work, it's not a good idea. So when you're at work, it's not a good idea."

IT'S THAT time of the year, darling, when everyone gets a couple of pounds. Here it's also that time of the year when I compile a pig-out, because my good friend.

There's the no-dieter homemade Christmas ham (the only one of the past 10 years to pork), prepared by my mother-in-law, Tanya Lumbard.

Then there's the delicious (and a little spicy) from La Tanya, which mega-enthusiast Mely Concepcion (Hollywood's only) made at this time of the year.

Also, the incredible, one of a kind from the island of Bonaire's Argentinians. You can keep it in the fridge for over a year and when you do it, it's still, still, still, still with the screaming aroma of top quality, stinky meat!

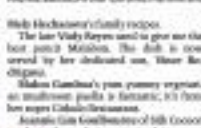

There's the super hot chili recipe of the Pines, courtesy of my mother-in-law, Tanya Lumbard, which mega-enthusiast Mely Concepcion (Hollywood's only) made at this time of the year.

How should parents of performers shield their children from the spotlight?

When it comes to the lives of performers, the spotlight is often a double-edged sword. For parents, the challenge is to protect their children from the pressures and scrutiny of the industry while allowing them to pursue their dreams. This is a delicate balance, one that requires open communication and a strong support system.

For many parents, the first step is to establish clear boundaries. This might mean limiting the child's screen time or ensuring they have a normal childhood outside of their career. It's also important to encourage the child to express their feelings and concerns, and to provide them with a safe space to retreat to when they need it.

REB LANI Mercado says her husband, Ramon "Bong" Revilla Jr., is just as meticulous as she is with home interiors. After Lani had put the finishing touches on this year's Christmas decor, with the help of interior designer Aray Yapitan, the still somewhat flustered Bong details.

"I incorporated his comments and suggestions to the overall design," Lani explains. "It was all the more to look perfect, festive and cozy."

"It's a perfectionist," Bong admits. PHIL, 80

Great endings, beautiful beginnings

By Ryan Katigbak

THE FUELLED season starts in hot just holidays and merry-making, but also a time for creating new beginnings for oneself, the family and community.

Creating better habits, experiment with different foods, take into new positions. Exercise better—physical and otherwise. Create positive transformations. Be inspired. Inspire and be inspired.

The Ayala Malls you imagine all these possibilities. Creative ideas plus unique experiences abound at Shorika and Greenbelt in Makati.

Walking Town Center, Ayala Center Cebu, Mall of Asia, and Bonifacio High Street in Bonifacio Global City, Taguig in Quezon City and Marikina Mall in Marikina.

The ideas, which are inspired by the label "The Imagination," create memorable events for each of the Ayala Malls.

Festive productions, such as a fireworks program, storytelling, folk, and artistic and chore performances delight the young and young at heart.

Storytelling events in a wide selection of clothing stores for family and friends, while events and food stalls—accompanied by fresh treats—make for perfect snacks or meal options.

Merchandise that benefits Habitat for Humanity. Children's New and Online companies. Rebound-up of gift suggestions. Donation boxes are also available for clothes and shoes you wish to share with the less fortunate.

Workshops not only get creative juices flowing, but also give families and friends quality time with each other.

There are themed booths. Santa meet-and-greet sessions and a whole lot more.

Turn these pages to discover how the Ayala Malls celebrate your holidays specially, while helping you make a fresh start in the year ahead.

WHILE YOU GET into the mood for a celebration with chocolate-glazed yuletide confections, the Radio City Radio City Holiday Concert "The Nutcracker" and "Pony Christmas" are the show's biggest money-makers. The show is staged every weekend until Dec. 15 at different Radio City locations, and is open to 16 and over. The program opens with a celebration of S.T.B. traditions. "The Nutcracker," a production of Stocktonville, is the show's centerpiece. With 100 dancers, it tells the story of a young girl's journey to the land of the Snow Queen.

The first half of the show features "Pony Christmas," choreographed by James Lafferty. Through song and dance, "Pony Christmas" depicts the journey of a young girl's journey to the land of the Snow Queen. The show is a production of Stocktonville, and is the show's centerpiece. With 100 dancers, it tells the story of a young girl's journey to the land of the Snow Queen.
